The trail to Grey Owl's Cabin leaves right from the beach. Its 3.2 kilometers one way on a mostly good trail. Canoeists and kayakers can portage their boats 600 meters and approach the cabin on Ajawaan Lake from the water. The trail to Grey Owl's cabin starts at the white sign. Grey Owl was Canada's first naturalist and a unique and often controversial individual. He has been called “a liar, a lush, a bigamist and an imposter” – all true from what I've read. After our visit to the cabin we had a 16.8 kilometer hike to get back to the parking lot. It’s easy hiking through mostly very pretty woods dotted with patches of wildflowers. It’s also full of deer and on many occasions both deer and I startled each other.
