From Kosovo to Kabul: human rights and international intervention

Related outputs

Introduction: Big Data Capitalism – Politics, Activism, and Theory

Datafying the Globe: Critical Insights into the Global Politics of Big Data Governance

Forum: Complex Systems and International Governance

The Transvaluation of Critique in the Anthropocene
The Transvaluation of Critique in the Anthropocene

Biopolitics 2.0 – Reclaiming the Power of Life in the Anthropocene

Islands of relationality and resilience: the shifting stakes of the Anthropocene

Intervention and Statebuilding beyond the Human: From the ‘Black Box’ to the ‘Great Outdoors’

Anthropocene, Capitalocene and Liberal Cosmopolitan IR: A Response to Burke et al.’s ‘Planet Politics’

‘Being in Being’: Contesting the Ontopolitics of Indigeneity Today

Introduction: resilience and the Anthropocene: the stakes of ‘renaturalising’ politics

Securing the Anthropocene? International Policy Experiments in Digital Hacktivism: A Case Study of Jakarta

Post-Political Ontologies and the Problems of Anti-Anthropocentrism: Reply to Tsouvalis

How the World Learned to Stop Worrying and Love Failure: Big Data, Resilience and Emergent Causality

New Narratives of International Security Governance: The Shift from Global Interventionism to Global Self-Policing

Resilience and the ‘everyday’: beyond the paradox of ‘liberal peace’

Contesting postliberalism: governmentality or emancipation?

The R2P is Dead, Long Live the R2P: The Successful Separation of Military Intervention from the Responsibility to Protect

Resilience and critique

Rethinking the Conflict-Poverty Nexus: From Securitising Intervention to Resilience

Reconceptualising International Intervention: Statebuilding, ‘Organic Processes’ and the Limits of Causal Knowledge

A World without Causation: Big Data and the Coming of Age of Posthumanism

The semantics of "crisis management": simulation and EU statebuilding in the Balkans

The onto-politics of assemblages

Resilience: the governance of complexity

Resilience and the 'everyday': beyond the paradox of 'liberal peace'

Beyond neoliberalism: resilience, the new art of governing complexity

Beyond good and evil: the onto-ethics of global complexity

Democracy unbound? Non-linear politics and the politicization of everyday life

International statebuilding and the ideology of resilience

The world of attachment? The post-humanist challenge to freedom and necessity

Resilience and the autotelic subject: toward a critique of the societalization of security

Resisting resilience? Reply to Mark Neocleous

No emancipatory alternative, no critical security studies

Where is the human in human-centred approaches to development? A critique of Amartya Sen’s ‘Development as Freedom’

Resilience ethics: responsibility and the globally embedded subject

Promoting democratic norms? Social constructivism and the "subjective" limits to liberalism

Peacebuilding and the politics of non-linearity: rethinking ‘hidden’ agency and ‘resistance’

‘Human-centred development? Rethinking "freedom" and "agency" in discourses of international development

Human security: the dog that didn't bark

Freedom vs necessity in international relations: human-centred approaches to security and development

Contemporary critiques of human rights

Born posthumously: rethinking the shared characteristics of the ICC and R2P

Resilience and human security: the post-interventionist paradigm
The limits of post-territorial political community

Le point de vue de David Chandler

Development as freedom?: from colonialism to countering climate change

Comment le state-building affaiblit les Etats

Understanding the gap between the promise and the reality of the responsibility to protect

The uncritical critique of ‘liberal peace’

Race, culture and civil society: peacebuilding discourse and the understanding of difference

Forget Foucault, forget Foucault, forget Foucault...

Review article: Risk and the biopolitics of global insecurity

Globalising Foucault: turning critique into apologia — a response to Kiersey and Rosenow

R2P or not R2P? More statebuilding, less responsibility

Liberal war and Foucauldian metaphysics

International statebuilding: the rise of post-liberal governance

The EU and Southeastern Europe: the rise of post-liberal governance

Book review essay: The Paradox of the ‘Responsibility to Protect’

The global ideology: rethinking the politics of the ‘global turn’ in IR

War without end(s): grounding the discourse of ‘global war’

Critiquing liberal cosmopolitanism? The limits of the biopolitical approach

The limits of post-territorial political community: from the cosmopolitan politics of global civil society to the biopolitics of the multitude

Unravelling the paradox of the ‘responsibility to protect’

Radicalism and the demand for global politics

Iraq and the problematic discourse of defeat

Introduction: beyond managing contradictions
I. Introduction: beyond managing contradictions

II. Ideological (mis)use of human rights

III. Hollow hegemony rethinking global politics, power and resistance

IV. Great power responsibility and “failed states”: strengthening sovereignty?

V. Global civil society

VI. EU statebuilding: securing the liberal peace through EU enlargement

VII. Balkan statebuilding: governance but not government

VIII. Balkan Devlet Ênleri: Yönetim Değil, Yönetisim’ (trans Ayse Merve Kamaci)

IX. A Dialogue on international interventions: when are they a right or an obligation?

X. Textual and critical approaches to reading Schmitt: rejoinder to Odysseos and Petito

XI. Normative power and the liberal peace: a rejoinder to John O’Brennan

XII. The revival of Carl Schmitt in international relations: the last refuge of critical theorists?

XIII. Review essay: Human security: the dog that didn’t bark

XIV. Human security II: waiting for the tail to wag the dog - a rejoinder to Ambrosetti, Owen and Wibben

XV. Review article: Theorising the shift from security to insecurity: Kaldor, Duffield and Furedi

XVI. The limits of post-territorial political community: from the cosmopolitan politics of global civil society to the biopolitics of the multitude

Chandler, D.C. 2008. The limits of post-territorial political community: from the cosmopolitan politics of global civil society to the biopolitics of the multitude. Filozofski Godišnjak (Philosophical Yearbook of the Department of Philosophy, University of Belgrade. 21, pp. 67-82.

XVII. The EU’s promotion of democracy in the Balkans

XVIII. Avrupa Birliği Ulus Dönasısi: Liberal Barisi Ab Genislemesiyile Güven Altına Alma

XIX. The security-development nexus and the rise of ‘anti-foreign policy’

European Union statebuilding: securing the liberal peace through EU enlargement

Hollow Hegemony: theorising the shift from interest-based to value-based international policy-making

Back to the future? The limits of neo-Wilsonian ideals of exporting democracy

Empire in denial: the politics of state-building

The problems of 'nation-building': imposing bureaucratic 'rule from above'

Constructing global civil society: morality and power in international relations

Building global civil society 'from below'?

New rights for old? Cosmopolitan citizenship and the critique of state sovereignty

From Kosovo to Kabul: human rights and international intervention

Anti-corruption strategies and democratization in Bosnia-Herzegovina

The road to military humanitarianism: how the human rights NGOs shaped a new humanitarian agenda